Researchers on project, 1986-1988:

Ms. Deanne Fountaine
Mrs. Kathleen MacDonald
Mr. Brad Hodgson
Mrs. Anne Boyko
Mrs. Bonnie Putman

This research was mainly funded by a 1986 CLIC fellowship grant as well as through a supplementary grant from the Law Foundation of Ontario grant distributed by the Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, Dean Neil Gold.

BACKGROUND

The Canadian Law Information Council, Ottawa, awarded one of its 1986 Research Fellowships for this research. Ms. Catherine Parker of C.L.I.C. was helpful and encouraging of the project. A further, supplementary grant was received later, from the Law Foundation of Ontario grant distributed by the Faculty of Law, University of Windsor. Dean Neil Gold was also helpful in regard to the project.

The inventory is an attempt to gather together references to the boards which make decisions or rules affecting a citizen's rights or property in the ten provinces and two territories of Canada. Canadian federal boards and other entities are not included. The sources for the board references were the revised statutes, as well as sessional or annual statute volumes through 1986 (up to 1984, 1985, or 1987 in a few provinces). The statutes were reviewed during the summer of 1987. The board references were input into a microcomputer database in the winter of 1987 and spring of 1988. In the summer of 1988 addresses for the boards were pursued and a survey was sent to 806 boards (64% of the 1,260 boards that were considered "law-making"). There were 367 replies (45.5%) incorporated into the database. [See the end of this introduction for a copy of the survey.] Responses were incorporated at the end of each Board entry.

Aside from the Board entries, an empowering statute index, a government Ministry or Department index, and a subject index were generated.

Ms. Deanne Fountaine and Mrs. Kathleen MacDonald were particularly instrumental in assembling this inventory.

Part 1. INTRODUCTION

Section 1. Primary Aim: The Canadian Provincial Administrative Board Inventory is an attempt to assemble a relatively complete list of provincial administrative boards which make substantive rules or decisions affecting citizens' jobs or livelihood, or property. These boards will be referred to as the "law-making boards". Some 1,260 boards from 10 provinces and 2 territories were selected from the revised statutes or ordinances of each province or territory. Boards added in the subsequent sessional or annual statute or ordinance volumes were included. Any board abolished in these subsequent sessional or annual volumes was deleted. The selection process dates from the summer of 1987.

There were a great number of officials and boards, vested with administrative powers, which were left out. Where the body was an official and the official's rule or decision was reheard by a board (rather than a court), it was decided to leave out the official and include only the final board. In other cases, where there did not seem to be a board rehearing, the board or the official was included.

Section 2. Advisory Boards: In addition, there were a number of boards which have been termed "advisory". These boards, from the terms of the statute or ordinance, did not seem to make rules or decisions. They advised another official, board, body, or minister of the Crown. The basis for this distinction was, at times, somewhat vague. Some boards seemed to make a decision, but left the actual issuance of that decision up to another (a minister in the government, for example).

Other boards, such as law reform commissions and status of women councils are clearly advisory and are important. Therefore, they were included in the inventory. Under the "Type of Board Instrument" field, the term "Advisory" appears. There are some 517 boards included as advisory.

Section 3. Basic Information: The inventory includes 1,777 boards or other entities (1,260 law-making boards plus 517 advisory boards). For all of these boards, the province, name of the board as it is found in the empowering statute and a direct or indirect reference (see Section four, "Statute References" for an explanation of direct and indirect) to the empowering statute, are noted. In addition, each board was assigned to one of 26 subjects. No board was classed under more than one subject. The 1,260 law-making boards were researched more extensively for additional information (described in Section 5, below).

Section 4. Statute References: Since it seemed desirable to create an index by empowering statute, the revision statute name was used. The board was sometimes created by a subsequent statute, which was an amendment to the revision. This subsequent, amending statute may or may not have been noted in the statute citation. (This depended on the space available in the computer database used to record the data.) This may seem inappropriate. It was felt, however, that the precise empowering statute section could be easily found, and up-dated, from the revision reference provided.

For other boards, the empowering statute was a new, post-revision statute. This statute was noted. The name of a statute passed subsequent to the revision which created a board, was sometimes altered for the purpose of meaningful indexing. "An Act Respecting Artificial Insemination" became "Artificial Insemination Act", for example.

Section 5. Additional Information: For the advisory boards, only the forenoted basic information (Section 3) was collected. For the law-making boards additional information was collected. The responsible government ministry or department was noted where such a connection could be found. In addition, the full address of the law-making boards was noted if it could be found. Lastly, each law-making board, for which an address was found, was surveyed. Each was asked about:

(1) the publication of some or all of their rules or decisions;
(2) the availability of unpublished rules or decisions;
(3) the indexing of the board's rules or decisions;
and (4) the retention period for the board's unpublished rules and decisions.

[See Section 14 of this Introduction for the survey used.]

Of the 1,260 law-making boards, 806 boards were surveyed (64%), during the last week of August and first week of September, 1988. As of November 1, 1988, there were 367 replies received (45.5%).

Section 6. Description of the Statute Index: The upper right corner of each page of this index has the word: Statute (just as this part has the word: Intro, on the upper right corner of each page).

This index is organized by Province or Territory. The subarrangement is by the name of the statute. The revision statute name and citation was used, even where the board was created by a later statute amendment to the revision.

Where the statute creating the board was passed after the revision, and was not an amendment to the revision, the statute name was indexed. In a number of records, the name of the later statute was edited down to the significant words in the statute name. For example, "An Act Respecting Artificial Insemination" would become "Artificial Insemination Act".

Section 7. Description of the Subject Index: The upper right corner of each page of this index has the word: Subject. The number which follows the word, subject, refers to the subject heading number (a list of the subjects will be found in Section 11).

There is a list of 26 subjects into which every record (full and advisory) was placed. Each board record (whether advisory or law making) was classified into one, and only one subject. Within the subject arrangement, the index is subarranged by the Province. Reference to the "Description of Boards" list with a full description of the board, is by record number.

Section 8. Description of the Ministry or Department Index: The upper right corner of each page of this index has the word: Gov't.

This index is organized by Province or Territory. The subarrangement is by the name of the responsible government, ministry or department as that ministry or department name is found in the statute. In some cases, the ministry or department is taken from another, secondary publication. No effort was made to make the ministry or department name uniform (there may be more than one version of a department name in the index). The ministry or department was not included for advisory boards. Accordingly, this index includes only the records of some of the 1,260 law-making boards. Where no mention of a government department or ministry was made, then none is noted for the board.

Section 9. "Inventory of Boards" Section: The upper right corner of this part of the inventory has the term: Bds, on each page.

This is the main body of the work and is organized by Province or Territory. The subarrangement is by the name of the board. (See the following section on Descriptions of Board Fields regarding the choice of board name provided for the purposes of this survey) The provinces and territories are listed in alphabetic order, beginning with Alberta and ending with the Yukon Territories. Each board entry has a unique record number. The indicies (statute, subject, ministry) refer to these board record numbers.

Section 10. Description of Inventory Field (Part 3)

Provincial Board Inventory Record Number: A continuous sequential number, unique to each board. The records in "Part 5 Descriptions of Boards" are in number order, reflecting an alphabetic arrangement by province and name of board. The indexes all refer to this board number.

Province: Province or Territory of the board.

Board: Name of board as it was found in the statutes. Some changes have been introduced by inserting words at the end of the board's name, in brackets, to make the name more meaningful.

General Statutory Authority: Where possible, the revision statute was always chosen for this name (and the initial citation was to the revision statute), for the purposes of indexing. This was done even where the statute was a later amendment to the revision statute. Citations to amendments to the revision were noted if space permitted (the space refers to a computer database field). Noting the amendments was not deemed crucial, since the full, proper cite can be easily found through other tools. New statutes which were not amendments to the revision were noted, but their titles were altered so that the first significant word in the title could be indexed.

Address of Board: Only "law-making" board addresses were sought. The addresses of many of these boards could not be found (see Statistics section).

Responsible Government Ministry or Department: Only "law-making" boards were checked for a department or ministry.

Type of Board Instrument: This note depended on the wording of the statute. "Law-making" boards have one of the following notes: (1) makes rules; (2) makes decisions; or (3) makes rules and decisions. The advisory boards have only one note: advisory. See the Statistics section for the number of boards in each province with each type of note.

Notes from Board: Only the "law-making" boards with addresses were asked about the following (see Section 14 for the full survey questions):

(1) Are some or all of the board's decisions or rules published?
(2) Are the board's decisions or rules retained internally and for how long?
(3) Does the board index its rules or decisions in any way?
(4) Are these indexes available?

Responses were noted at the end of each Board entry in Part 3, "Inventory of Boards and Other Entities".

Section 11. List of Subjects in Subject Index

Note: Every board record (full or advisory) has been classified into one of the following 26 subjects. Each subject is presented by a unique number, noted here. This number is noted in the upper right corner of the Subject index. A board will not be listed under more than one subject.

Subject	Brief Description, subject includes:
1. Agriculture	agriculture, ranching, stock yards, fishing, forestry, agricultural land, artificial insemination, farm loans, weed control, etc.
2. Animal Care
3. Consumer Protection
4. Civil Service	grieviances, pensions, government functions
5. Commerce and Industry	industry, commerce, trade development, economic advice, personal property registration, etc.

Section 14. Survey Used to Contact Boards

RE: STUDY OF PROVINCIAL ADMINISTRATIVE BOARDS

BACKGROUND:

This study of administrative boards and officials, who make either rules or decisions, has been conducted through the summers of 1986 and 1987. Its object is to identify more significant boards and officials from the statutes of each province; to list the statutory authority for the board; to indicate the department or ministry of the provincial government to whom reports might be given from time to time; and to list any regular publications of the board.

The Canadian Law Information Coundil, Ottawa; the Faculty of Law, University of Windsor; and the Law Foundation of Ontario are the funding agencies supporting this study. The Canadian Law Information Council (CLIC) may publish the compiled data as one of its research papers.

REQUEST:

Please note (in pen or pencil) responses to the following and return in the enclosed envelope.

1. Please look at the attached sheet and correct or add to the information. Thank you. [Attached was information on board]
2. Does the board make any decisions or rules affecting a person (or persons) or property? YES/NO: __________ [The ranking as a law making board was not based on the reply indicated here.]
3. Is there any source which publishes some or all of the board's decisions or rules?

   a) YES/NO: __________

   b) If Yes, title? ______________________________

   ____

   c) If Yes, where would one get this publication -- if not from the board?

   ____

4. Are the board's decisions or rules retained internally (e.g., by the board)? YES/NO: __________
OR, by a government department or other? Who? ________________

If Yes, for how long are the decisions or rules retained (e.g., approximate number of years?

5. If decisions or rules are retained, does the board list these decisions or rules for its use?

   a) YES/NO: __________
   b) If Yes, by file number? ______________________________
   c) If Yes, by name of person involved? ________________
   d) If Yes, by subject or area? ______________________
   e) If Yes, Other: ________________________________

6. If the board has a list or lists of the decisions or rules, is this list:

   a) Available to persons visiting your office? YES/NO?

   b) Available for purchase (xeroxed or otherwise)?
   YES/NO: __________

7. If the board has decisions or rules, would you be interested in having the Canadian Law Information Council contact you about a mutual publishing venture for some or all of the board's decisions or rules? YES/NO: __________

8. Is there any information or comment which you feel the public should know about the board? (Below or Attach)
